ANNUAL REPORT OF THE
MANAGERS OF THE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

To the Board of Education of the City of Cincinnati.

The Managers of the Public Library respectfully present for your information the following statement by their Treasurer of the moneys received and disbursed, during the year ending June 21, 1873, for the Library, together with a report, by the Librarian, as to its internal management and condition.

The general result of the Treasurer's account is, that $20,190.51 have been expended during the year for books and binding, and $17,938.46 for salaries and other current expenses of the institution, the force employed in addition to the Librarian being twenty-five assistants and two janitors. The proceeds of the Library tax of one-tenth of a mill, amount to $17,140.21, appropriated exclusively to the purchase of books. The outlay for all other purposes, including $100,966.39 for building, has been paid out of the School Fund, under your direction.

The Librarian's Report leaves nothing to be added concerning the general use and operation of the Library in the circulating department. But in respect to the Reading Rooms and their use and importance, we beg leave to refer you more particularly to the facts stated in his Report and to your own past action.

The Committee appointed by the Board of Education, in July, 1868, fixed upon the present site of the Library, and adopted the plans of building proposed by Mr. J. W. McLaughlin, architect, and which are fully explained in the Annual Report which we had the honor to submit to you in June, 1869. By the express action of your Committee, the building, now nearly completed, was designed in all its parts to meet the double wants and purposes of a Library and a Reading Room ; the latter being regarded not only as a proper auxiliary or appendage to the former, but being made essential for the reason that a large class of books must be reserved for consultation only, and can not be issued for circulation. According to the plans thus adopted, the front rooms on the first floor were designed and built as the office and the reception-room for visitors of the Library, and the large room immediately above, in the second story, was prepared as the Reading Room. Meanwhile, until the completion of the main building in the rear, the latter has necessarily been taken for the Library, and the rooms on the first floor have been occupied as Reading-Rooms, thus forcing all the business of the Librarian's office, and of the Managers', as well as much of the manual work of cataloguing and preparing books for the shelves, into a small and crowded apartment in rear of the present Library. The third story of the front building has been given up to the room for works on art, and to the Theological and Medical Libraries, which have become permanently incorporated with the Public Library, on the basis offered to these and other library associations, as submitted to you in our Annual Report of June, 1869. Two other libraries now have the question under consideration whether they will adopt the same privilege. The fourth story will therefore furnish the only remaining space for their use and for necessary work-rooms, which the future wants of the Library will render indispensable. The only criticism which has been made upon the edifice is, that it will prove inadequate to the purposes for which it was designed.

These facts will serve to show that unless it be deemed expedient to break up and abolish the Reading Rooms, which thus far have proved to be a most valuable and interesting adjunct of the Library, there will be great difficulty in appropriating any part of the building to any other than the original purpose and plan.

Treasurer of the Board of Managers.

REPORT OF THE LIBRARIAN.

PUBLIC LIBRARY OF CINCINNATI, }
June 30, 1873. }

To the Board of Managers of the Public Library:

GENTLEMEN: I herewith respectfully submit my Annual Report, as Librarian, for the official year ending June 21, 1873.

The past year has been one of great success and extended usefulness in every department of the institution. From the statistics which follow, it will be seen that the number of readers and the circulation of books have largely increased; that more than ten thousand volumes have been added to the library, and that the entire collection in less than three years has grown from twenty-three thousand to nearly sixty thousand volumes. But for the want of shelf-room in our present contracted and temporary quarters, the purchases of the year would have been larger.

One year ago, when the contracts were made for finishing the main library and its adjacent apartments, it was believed that before the close of this official year they would be completed, and that we should be in possession of their ample accommodations. As the finish, with the exception of the shelving and counters, is of iron and marble, the processes have been necessarily slow, and hence have taken more time than was expected. The work is now so far advanced that the whole building will, without doubt, be ready for occupancy in September.

ACCESSIONS.

The library now contains 59,695 volumes. The number reported one year ago was 49,636, making a net increase of 10,059 volumes.

To the Public Library proper 9,087 volumes have been added by purchase, and 874 by donation, making an increase, after deducting 473 volumes worn out and withdrawn, of 9,488 volumes.

Of the special libraries in our charge, 204 volumes have been added to the Theological and Religious Library by purchase and the binding of serials, and 367 volumes to the Cincinnati Hospital Library by purchase.

The Public Library proper has.....	54,225	volumes.
The Theological and Religious Library.....	3,979	"
The Cincinnati Hospital Library.....	1,491	„
Total.....	59,695

The accession of pamphlets during the year has been 1,555, of which 469 have been purchased, and 1,086 have been given.

The amount expended for books and pamphlets was $15,734.99, and for periodicals for the reading-rooms $1,582.55, making a total expenditure for the use and increase of the library, $17,317.54. The amount expended for binding was $2,872.97. The amount received for fines was $1,377.44.

Among the accessions of the year were 1,645 volumes of German publications. The call for German and French literature is steadily increasing, and, excepting English prose fiction and juveniles, this is by far the largest demand made upon the circulating department. A considerable increase of the department of German literature ought to be made during the next year. The press of this country and of England has issued during the past year a smaller number than usual of new books of marked interest. American publications have been placed on our shelves as soon as they appeared in the market; and such a number of duplicates have been procured as the merit of each work seemed to demand. No attempt has been made to supply the whole temporary call for a popular book on its first issue. Such a course would soon lumber our shelves with useless duplicates. Only so many copies are procured as will probably be used after the first temporary interest in the book has passed away. New English publications, for the circulating department, which are not reprinted in this country, we procure from our agent in London, who picks them up from Mudie's and other circulating libraries at greatly reduced rates soon after their issue, and puts them in substantial library binding.

The library is under great obligations to the courtesy of the house of the Wheeler & Wilson Manufacturing Company, in New York city, for instructing its agent in London to pay any authorized draft to the agent of the library in London, or in any part of Europe. This arrangement enables the library to pay its bills for purchases in Europe promptly without making a deposit of funds in London. Notice of these drafts, with receipts of bills paid, are sent to the New York house, and are forwarded to us with an account in currency, at the price of gold and the selling rates of foreign exchange in New York on that day. In view of the fact that ours is a public library, the Wheeler & Wilson Manufacturing Company have generously made no charges for commission or interest, and several weeks must elapse after their agent has paid the money before the house is reimbursed. Drafts amounting to nearly nine thousand dollars have been paid by this house during the past year on account of the purchases of the library abroad. Besides the convenience of the arrangement, a considerable saving has been made to the library in the price of gold and the low rates of exchange.

DONATIONS.

In Appendix A will be found a list of the donors to the library during the year. Their gifts have been 874 volumes and 1,089 pamphlets. The number reported last year was 785 volumes and 573 pamphlets.

The Common Council of Cincinnati have given a valuable collection of 49 bound volumes of newspapers, which have long been stored in the city building. The Gazette Company has presented 59 volumes and 469 pamphlets; and Mr. John A. Cockerill, editor of the Enquirer, has given 21 volumes and 32 pamphlets. Many of these donations from newspaper editorial rooms have much historical and local interest. The Ohio Historical and Philosophical Society has given 33 volumes and 133 pamphlets, which were duplicates in its collection, or outside the range of topics to which it devotes attention. Wilson, Hinkle & Co. have given 30 volumes and 55 pamphlets, chiefly on educational subjects. Mr. John W. M. Lee, Librarian of the Baltimore Mercantile Library, has given 20 volumes and 66 pamphlets, including nearly a complete set of the publications of the Maryland Historical Society, and other matters of historical interest. Mr. Theodore Stanwood has presented 40 volumes and 114 pamphlets; Mr. Julius Dexter, 11 volumes and 44 pamphlets; Mr. Robert Clarke, 41 volumes; Mr. Joseph Rawson, 39 volumes; Mr. Thomas Cleneay, 27 volumes; Miss Emily Z. Ashford, 49 volumes and 47 pamphlets; and Dr. Samuel A. Green, of Boston, 7 volumes and 72 pamphlets. Our city delegation in Congress, Hon. Aaron F. Perry, Hon. Job Stevenson, and Hon. Ozro J. Dodds, have been attentive to the wants of the library, and have made valuable donations of public documents. Col. Wm. H. Withington, of Jackson, Michigan, Representative in the State Legislature, has sent to the library the current official publications of Michigan. Senator John Sherman has furnished the library with United States documents. The United States Government has kept up its series of sessional documents, the last issue being seventy-five bound volumes; and the Patent Office has continued to send its current series of patent specifications and drawings, forty-five bound volumes having been issued the past year. The Manchester, Birmingham, Liverpool, and Salford Free Libraries of England have sent their catalogues and reports. Further details may be seen by referring to Appendix A.

BOOK-BORROWERS.

The number of persons now entitled to borrow books from the library is 19,636. The number reported last year was 15,226. Of the new readers, 4,391 have deposited the usual certificate of guaranty, and 85 preferred to deposit three dollars, as provided in the regulations. Sixty-six persons, who had previously made deposits, have withdrawn them. The net increase of book-borrowers for the year has been 4,410.

CIRCULATION.

For the consultation of books and periodicals, the library and reading rooms have been accessible every day in the year. For the circulation of books the library has been open three hundred and eight days. The number of volumes taken out for home reading has been 239,487. The number reported last year was 190,880, and the year previous 100,256. The increase of circulation for the past year was 48,607, and the per cent. 25.5. The largest weekly issue was 6,202 volumes—from March 3d to 8th. The largest daily issue was 1,679 volumes—on Saturday, January 25. The average issues on all the Saturdays of the year was 1,103 volumes. For six consecutive weeks, from February 2 to March 8, the average daily circulation was more than 1,000 volumes. The smallest weekly issue was 3,360 volumes—from June 30 to July 6. The smallest daily issue was 381—on September 24. During the month of September, when the Industrial Exposition was being held, the statistics of the library were lower than at any other part of the year. The aggregate issues of the library and reading-rooms for the year were 397,624. A table showing, week by week, the circulation and daily average, the issues of the reading-rooms, the Sunday issues, and the total issues, will be found in Appendix B.

The classification of the circulation for the past and the previous year has been as follows :

	1873.	1872.
History and Biography.....	6.4	6.5
Voyages and Travels	1.9	1.8
Science and Arts	2.5	2.5
Poetry and the Drama.....	1.7	1.4
German and French Literature.....	11.2	10.5
English Prose Fiction and Juveniles.....	73.8	74.8
Miscellaneous.....	2.5	2.5

Of the persons who have drawn books from the library, 55.6 per cent. have been males, and 44.4 per cent. have been females; while of the fiction and juveniles taken out, 50.6 per cent. have been taken by males, and 49.4 per cent. have been taken by females, showing that the latter take out a larger proportion of novels and juveniles than the former. It will be seen that the rates per cent. in the classification are substantially the same year by year, and they are similar to the statistics of all public libraries. Nothing seems more like an accident than the selection of books from a well-furnished public library; yet there is a hidden law which determines that selection, as fixed as the law which determines year by year the average temperature of our climate. Statistics show that the taste for reading in one community is the same as that of every other community in similar social conditions. Statistics here, in New England, and in Old England show, in the main, the same results. About three-quarters of the selections will be prose fiction and juveniles. If a library should report a much lower ratio than this, the necessary inference would be that the library was not well furnished in this department, that there was some restriction on the use of these books, or that the statistics were not accurately kept. In the Lower Hall, or popular circulating department of the Boston Public Library, seventy-six per cent. of the circulation, the last published report of that library shows, was prose fiction and juveniles. As I stated in my last report, I am not disposed to mourn over or to apologize for these facts. In the personal experience of all who attain to literary culture there is a time when they read novels, and perhaps too many novels. In passing through this stage of their mental development, which usually lasts but for a short period, they acquire a habit of reading, and a facility of thought and expression which is of great benefit to them in their later studies. With many persons the alternative is not whether they will read fiction or something better, but whether they will read fiction or nothing. As a rule people read books of a higher intellectual and moral standard than their own, and hence are benefited by reading. Novels of an immoral tendency, or even of an equivocal character, are excluded from our collection.

The per cent. of English prose fiction and juveniles taken out the past year was 73.8 against 74.8 the year previous, which indicates that the tendency to novel reading in our community is not increasing. This result was ascertained by combining the daily rates per cent. into weekly averages, these into monthly averages, and these again into a yearly average. This method has given a higher yearly average than actually occurred, for the reason that during the winter and spring months, when the circulation is largest, the proportion of this class of reading is the smallest. The following were the rates per cent. for each of the months: July, 78.5; August, 79.2; September, 76; October, 72.7; November, 71.2; December, 71.4; January, 72.1; February, 72.9; March, 71.5; April, 72.6; May, 72.8; June, 76. Yearly average, 73.8.

An inquiry has recently been made to ascertain the proportion of youth below the age of sixteen who take books from the library. The result is, that of all persons taking books, those below the age of twelve years are two and nine-tenths per cent.; those between the ages of twelve and sixteen are nineteen and four-tenths per cent.; and those above the age of sixteen are seventy-seven and seven-tenths per cent.

READING-ROOMS.

The general reading-rooms are supplied with three hundred and ten periodicals, of which one hundred and thirty-eight are American, ninety-six English, sixty German, twelve French, three Dutch, and one Welsh. Fifty-two duplicate copies of the more popular serials are also taken, making the total number received in these rooms three hundred and sixty-two. The reading-room in the third story is supplied with forty-two medical periodicals, which are paid for from the funds of the Cincinnati Hospital; and in this room are thirty-seven files of the current religious newspapers sent to the Theological and Religious Library. All the city newspapers, one New York, and one Boston newspaper are taken at the library for binding.

The issues for consultation in the general reading-rooms, not including the use of works of reference which are kept in these rooms, have been 46,933 books, and 111,204 periodicals. The report last year was 37,085 books, and 91,129 periodicals. No account has been kept of the use of the medical periodicals, or of the files of religious newspapers, as they are accessible to readers without the formality of applying to an attendant.

The experience of the past two years seems to demonstrate that a special reading-room for the use of ladies is not needed. Attention was called to the fact, one year ago, that while the issues of the gentlemen's reading-room the year previous were 119,372, those of the ladies' reading-room were only 10,842. During the past year the issues of the former have increased to 147,978, and the issues of the latter have fallen off from 10,842 to 10,159. When the main building is completed, and the large room in the second story of the front building, now temporarily occupied by the library, comes into use as a general reading-room for periodicals, the ladies will there find an attendant of their own sex, ample space for reading, and a toilet-room for their especial accommodation.

SUNDAY READING.

The project of opening the reading rooms of a public library on Sunday, which elsewhere had been long discussed, but which was first carried into execution in Cincinnati more than two years ago, can no longer be regarded as an experiment. It has been adopted in nearly all the large cities of our country, by the Free Library of Birmingham, in England, and is now being considered, if it is not already adopted, in the free libraries of Liverpool, Manchester, and other English towns. If there was any opposition to the measure here in Cincinnati two years ago, it seems wholly to have vanished; and now its most zealous supporters are religious men who have most at heart the welfare of the community. I am informed by the President and Superintendent of the Young Men's Christian Association of our city, that they are not only earnestly in favor of the Public Library being open on Sunday, but they know of no opposition to it among the evangelical clergymen and laymen who belong to the Christian Association. The perfect order and decorum which have always prevailed in our reading-rooms would be creditable in a Sunday-school. The attendance and issues of Sunday during the past year have exceeded those of the previous year; although, from the contracted space in our temporary reading-rooms, such increase seemed to be impossible. The attendance on no single day has been as large, but the average attendance has been larger and more uniform, and a larger proportion of books have been consulted than formerly. Of late, it has frequently happened that more books than periodicals have been called for. The issues of the year have been 9,820 books, and 12,915 periodicals, against 6,475 books and 13,442 periodicals the previous year—a total of 22,735 issues. The daily average has increased from 383 to 437.

CATALOGUE.

Since the last catalogue was printed two years ago, more than twenty-five thousand volumes have been added to the library. The card catalogue of these accessions is complete up to the latest book received, is arranged alphabetically, and is kept in readiness to be put to press at any moment. I recommend that a supplementary catalogue be printed as soon as the library is removed and arranged in the main hall.

ROOM FOR ILLUSTRATED BOOKS.

The room specially fitted up for the safe preservation of valuable illustrated books, and with proper appliances for their exhibition, was opened to the public in November last. It has been under charge of an attendant during the regular library hours on secular days—from 8 A. M. to 10

P. M.—and on Sundays from 3 to 10 P. M. The room has been visited by a large number of citizens, and of visitors from abroad, who have uniformly expressed their surprise, as well as satisfaction, in finding in our city so fine and valuable a collection of illustrated books, and which are so freely accessible to the public. The collection has been largely used by architects, civil engineers, mechanics, artists, students in the fine arts, and by the pupils of the McMicken Art School. In the report of last year was given a considerable list of the more important works in the collection. Later additions have been made, among which are the following :

A misapprehension exists in the minds of a few persons as to the purposes of the collection. "It is not the intention," said the last Annual Report, "to show the more valuable works as picture-books; but any person who wishes to consult them for artistic purposes may, under regulations made by the Board of Managers, do so." The misapprehension alluded to has occasionally occurred when a resident, taking a visitor from a distant city through the library, and wishing to impress on him the importance of the institutions of Cincinnati, has asked to have the most expensive books put on exhibition; it may be Piranesi, or the folio edition of Audubon's Birds. The parties profess to have no artistic habits, and no special interest in Roman antiquities or natural history; the motive is simply to see expensive picture-books. Such a use of these works would soon ruin them, and a public collection of valuable books for the higher purpose of artistic culture would be an impossibility. In order to use the two works named, it is necessary to procure a permit from some member of the Board of Managers. Persons who are aware of the value of these works will readily see the propriety of this regulation. It is not to be supposed that persons who wish to use the collection "for artistic purposes" are necessarily artists. The same attention is shown to art students and amateurs as to the art profession.

In this room is a complete collection of the reports, specifications, and drawings of the United States Patent Office; and it is much used by inventors and patentees. Sets of the British and French patents are greatly needed, there being no sets in the State of Ohio. The ample accommodations which the library is soon to have makes it now practicable to procure these sets. The British government has presented its patent publications to institutions in some of the large cities of our country where they have been needed, the libraries to which they are presented bearing the expense of binding. The binding of the set alone will cost about ten thousand dollars. As the United States minister at the Court of St. James is a citizen of Ohio, he would doubtless feel interested, if so requested, to procure from the British government the donation of these publications.

MEDICAL LIBRARY.

The accessions to the Medical Library in our charge, but the property of the Cincinnati Hospital, were 367 volumes, making the entire collection 1,491 volumes.

Dr. Wm. H. Mussey has unofficially expressed his intention of placing in the Public Library his valuable collection of medical books, which he proposes to name in honor of his father, the late Dr. Rueben Dimond Mussey, the "Mussey Library."

A new interest has recently been awakened among the medical profession of our city in building up a large and well-selected medical department in the Public Library. The trustees and professors of the Ohio Medical College are again considering the question of placing its medical books in our possession. The small but well-selected collection, purchased with the clinical funds of the Cincinnati Hospital, has been of great service to the profession; and, it is hoped, will be the nucleus of a creditable medical department in our library.

BINDING.

The binding of the library has now become so considerable that it will employ the constant services of several persons during the entire year. The sum expended for binding the past year, not including a large amount done in England and Germany, was $2,872.97. Although we have sent our books to several binders, yet, owing to the pressure of their regular work and other causes, it has often been three months, and sometimes longer, before the books were returned. Library work is different from ordinary binding, and requires men skilled in this specialty. All the large libraries at the East have found it necessary to have binderies of their own, and to give skilled workmen constant employment. I recommend that a room in the basement of the new building be fitted up for a bindery, and that our books in the future be bound on our own premises.

ANNUAL EXAMINATION.

The annual examination of the library was commenced the last week in May, and has been continued to the present time, by finding or accounting for, as far as possible, all the books in the library. This work has been done without closing the library or interrupting the circulation of books for a day. One hundred and forty-nine volumes have not been accounted for. The most important of these are Mrs. Jameson's "Legend of the Monastic Orders," London, 1867, and Lossing's "Book of the Hudson." Of the apparently missing books, fifty-six are novels and juveniles. Of the books reported missing last year, thirty-three have since been found.

Several dictionaries and other works of reference have been stolen from the reading-rooms. One person has been detected, and has been sentenced in the Police Court to three months in the work-house, with the additional penalty of a fine which will hamper his personal freedom for several months longer. Another person has been arrested and tried for mutilating a book, and on the recommendation of the prosecution was acquitted. On a full examination of the case it appeared possible, if not probable, that the book was mutilated when he called for it, though he neglected to report the mutilation, and gave his place of residence erroneously on the ticket with which he applied for the book. Evidence is accumulating against two other persons who are suspected of stealing books from the reading rooms. The police force and the Police Court have given every needed facility in detecting and punishing persons who have abused the privileges of the library. The library-book thief is one of the meanest creatures in the thieving profession, and no pains will be spared to detect and punish him. The sympathy which was extended to the theological student and preacher who stole books from this library more than a year ago, subsequent events have shown to be wholly misplaced. He has since been detected in committing other grave offenses, and has left the country in disgrace.

LIBRARY BUILDING.

With the completion and occupancy of the new building, the library will enter upon a new phase in its history. It will attract the attention of our own citizens as it has never yet done. Regarded simply for its architectural features, the Public Library building will be the most attractive edifice in the city. That Cincinnati should have the largest, the best arranged, the most elegant, and the only fire-proof public library building in the country, will be the occasion of no small amount of local pride. When the building is finished and opened for inspection, its immense capacity, its beautiful proportions, its well-planned arrangements, and its tasteful details, will surprise our own citizens even more than strangers; for the work has gone on behind barricades, and so quietly that few persons have watched it while in progress.

Up to this time—with the exception of one bequest of $5,000, from Mrs. Sarah Lewis, which has been funded, and only its interest expended for the purchase of books—the library has depended wholly on public money for its growth and support. Other public libraries have received large donations of money from noble-minded individuals of wealth. With a capacity of 250,000 volumes in the main building, we shall have for some years an array of empty shelves to beg for us; and may we not hope that these quiet appeals will be heard? With only the income derived from taxation for the purchase of books, and which is limited by the statutes of Ohio, it is estimated that nearly twenty years will be required to fill the main building. Is there not reason for hoping that it will be filled in ten years by the aid of private donations? It is difficult to conceive how a resident of Cincinnati could do an act which would redound more to the credit of Cincinnati—to its literary, scientific, and social status—than by furnishing the means of filling this splendid library building with useful and standard books. Where the best libraries are, there the literary workers, the scholars, and the learned men gather. The Board of Education, in erecting this building, has done its work nobly and generously. It remains for the public-spirited citizens of Cincinnati to second these results, and speedily make this library equal, at least, in its resources to any in the land.

WILLIAM F. POOLE,

Librarian.
